BATTLE FOR PARIS RAGES

French Fight Fiercely To Defend Capital City

Reims And Rouen Taken By Nazis Berlin Asserts

Claim Nazis Are Only 12½ Miles From Paris In Big Drive

SEINE CROSSED: MARNE ATTAINED

Germans Confident That French Resistance Will Soon Be Broken

By PIERRE J. HUSS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, June 12.—The important cities of Reims and Rouen, sentinel towers in the defense of Paris, have fallen into German hands and Nazi troops in the northwest are now only 12½ miles from the capital, German military authorities asserted today.

At "all points" between the sea and the River Meuse the German advance is continuing according to program, it was said.

With the Seine crossed and the Marne attained, Nazi Germany's gigantic ring around Paris is beginning to close and Berlin began to wonder whether the French would be "foolhardy" enough to sacrifice their city to merciless bombardment rather than surrender.

Nearing Versailles

German authorities, still completely confident that French resistance soon would be broken in its entirety, waited eagerly for word that the Nazis had reached Versailles, where 21 years ago the World War peace treaties were signed and Germany presumably reduced to the status of a second-rate power forever.

Official German quarters declared that the population remaining in Paris was becoming panicky, with the governmental administration confused.

One spokesman hinted that France may deliberately decide to sacrifice the capital "for the purpose of charging the Germans with a brutal attack on one of the world's

Rome Reports Italian Air Attack On Malta

By PERCY WINNER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

ROME, June 12.—Violent Italian aerial attacks on the island of Malta, British Mediterranean stronghold, and repulse of a British air assault on northern Libya were announced today in Italy's first war communique.

The war bulletin said the Italian raid on Malta military objectives produced "evident results."

Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano's newspaper Telegrafo, in a dispatch from the Franco-Italian frontier, said bridges at Ponte and San Luigi were blown up by Italian engineers after passage of the final trains along the coastal line.

Italian Ships Captured

At the same time Italian authorities disclosed that five Italian ships which were unable to carry out attempted scuttling operations had been captured by the British navy off the Spanish coast.

Most of the crew members escaped, it was stated.

The ships were listed as the Lavoro, 4,600 tons; the Libero, 2,000

Declare Nazi Drive Against Paris Now Reaching Its Peak

By KENNETH DOWNS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

SOMEWHERE IN FRANCE, June 12.—Germany today is reaching the peak of her drive in an increasingly desperate gamble for victory, according to French military authorities.

At least 100 German divisions have been pressed into the blazing onslaught against French defenses between the lower Seine river and the Argonne.

(In Paris a military spokesman declared:

("The battle for Paris is now fully engaged following the French withdrawal to points north of the city.")

Reserve Tanks In Use

Chancellor Hitler has hurled every tank and mechanized vehicle he possesses into the battle. All German reserve tanks are in action, French authorities said, as well as tanks used for instruction and training purposes, which have been rushed to the front from the interior of Germany.

Hitler has shoved in the stack. Every chip is on the table.

The French command decided to withdraw to the outskirts of Paris.

Accordingly the French troops withdrew from Compiegne, Noyon,

Says America Gets Cooperation From Brazilians

By JOSEPH H. BAIRD
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 12.—The American government is receiving from the Brazilian regime of President Getulio Vargas the warmest and most hearty cooperation in the history of the two nations, Secretary of State Hull said today when asked to comment on a speech of Vargas implying sympathy for Fascist ideals.

Hull declined to comment on the speech itself, saying that he had not received it officially. He said, however, that Vargas was speaking to his own people rather than to foreign nations. That seemingly implied that Hull regarded the Brazilian's remarks as applying to totalitarianism only so far as it had been employed in Brazil and not as an expression of sympathy for Germany and Italy.

The Vargar government, Hull added, has cooperated fully in the program to build up Pan-American solidarity.

Allies Also Initiate Aerial Action Against Italian Bases In Libya

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, June 12.—British bombing planes carried the war into Italy today with a series of raids on military objectives in the northern part of the country while German aerial attackers skirted and machine-gunned the coast of England.

Announcement of the attacks on Italy were made in an air ministry communique which said:

"The Royal Air Force reconnoitered northern Italy last night Bombs were dropped on certain military objectives.

Planes Zoom Low

Two German Heinkel planes zoomed low over coastal towns during the night. One was shot down after searchlights had picked it out of the skies, and the other swept low enough to machine-gun British troops guarding a jetty at a southeast coast town.

The Germans failed to hit their target, all bullets falling wide of their mark, but the attacker escaped.

Prior to the attack the plane had been picked up by searchlight crews. Dull thuds were heard, but it was stated that any bombs dropped by the plane must have fallen into the sea.

Meanwhile, British authorities in London pictured the situation on the Paris front as "grim and serious," but by no means hopeless.

GENEVA, June 12.—A soldier and a woman were killed and 12 persons were wounded today by unidentified warplanes which bombed Geneva, seat of the League of Nations.

Whether Italian planes had carried out the attack was not known.

Swiss military authorities announced the violation of Switzerland's neutrality occurred during the early hours of the morning.

Five bombs fell on Geneva, which was fully lighted, damaging houses near a quay on the river Arve.

Two air raid warnings were sounded, marking the first time Geneva has been "alerted" since the European war began.

Replacements For CCC Camps Will Be Increased Slightly

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, June 12.—Replacements for the civilian conservation corps camps in Pennsylvania will jump from 3800 to 6000, it was announced today by state selection supervisor J. Fred Kurtz, but the present enrollment of 16,000 will be maintained.

"There are approximately 16,000 men enrolled in the camps in Pennsylvania at the present time," said Kurtz, "and the reason for the increase over the April figure is due to congressional disapproval of a proposed cut in CCC appropriations amounting to $50,000,000." The replacements will take the place of youths dropping out of the C. C. C.

The selection chief pointed out that 300,000 men are now enrolled in 1500 camps throughout the country and that there was no intention at the present time to add military training to the curricula of the camp enrollees. The Pennsylvania contingent is the largest, he added.

FRENCH TO DEFEND PARIS TO FINISH

By JOHN MacVANE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

TOURS, France, June 12.—A powerful German drive on Rheims was announced by the French high command today in a war communique asserting there had been no important changes on the entire war front.

"The battle continues," the communique said.

"The situation is without any important change on the entire front.

"It is confirmed that an enemy drive in the direction of Rheims is being made by powerful means, including two armored divisions."

This communique was issued after French troops had fallen back to the south bank of the Marne river as the Germans began to tighten their cordon around Paris.

At the Marne—famous for the 1914 defense of Paris—the French dug in for another desperate stand in defense of the capital.

Will Defend Capital

General Hering, military governor of the Paris area, said the capital will be defended to the last stick and stone but that it will not be an isolated siege such as occurred in 1870.

The general issued a proclamation stating the defense of the capital is not an isolated strategic operation but is included in the whole French defense system.

His proclamation said:

"French soldiers and their leaders have lost none of their implacable resolution to resist the invader and save the country."

At the same time the governor ordered all French youths 17 years

Nazi Submarine Halted U. S. Liner

German Government Admits Identity; Says U. S. Liner's Course Was Changed

(International News Service)

BERLIN, June 12.—The Nazi government tonight officially admitted that it was a German submarine which stopped the refugee United States liner Washington off the coast of Portugal early yesterday morning.

The liner was stopped, the announcement said, because the state department at Washington through its embassy in Berlin, had only informed Germany that the Washington was calling at Bordeaux and Lisbon.

The fact that the ship was also calling at Galway Ireland, for additional refugees was made known to Germany only yesterday afternoon, after the liner had been stopped.

An official announcement said that the U-boat commander "acted correctly" and had mistaken the Washington for a Greek steamer which previously had attempted to escape.

German officials pointed out that the Washington was permitted to proceed with the usual exchange of courtesy signals after her identity was established.

Egypt Joins Allied Front

Government Severs Diplomatic Relations With Italy

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

CAIRO, June 12.—The Egyptian government tonight severed diplomatic relations with Italy.

The action was taken after the Chamber of Deputies overwhelmingly approved a declaration by Premier Aly Maher Pasha recommending the severance.

The step was not unexpected. Egypt is an ally of Great Britain.

All Egyptian reserves, including the famous desert camel corps, were reported mobilized and at their frontier battle stations.

Since Egypt harbors British naval and air bases, observers said, it will be difficult for her to remain at peace with Italy. For this reason, according to unofficial quarters, a declaration of war is expected.

Friday Is Flag Day! Wide Observance Urged

Friday, June 14, marks the 163rd anniversary of the day the American Congress officially adopted the Stars and Stripes as the flag of this nation. From every building, from every home on Friday the flag should be displayed for never in the history of the nation has there been such a need for genuine patriotism as exists now. One outward display of true patriotism is the display of the flag on patriotic holidays and particularly on Flag Day.

Today the Stars and Stripes is one of the few flags in the world that flies over a free people. Totalitarianism, dictatorship, suppression of the rights of a free people none of them have any place under the flag of the United States.

Not every citizen of the United States today is proud of the flag. Some there are who belong in the category of Fifth Columnists, who were the opportunity to present itself, would lend themselves to any subversive movement that would bring the Stars and Stripes to the same level as the flags of Belgium, Holland, Denmark, Norway, and the other countries who have felt the iron heel of the dictator.

See Defense Battle In Congress

Use Of National Guard Is Issue

Part Of Military Affairs Committee Attacks Action Of Majority

DEVELOPMENTS IN DEFENSE PROGRAM

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 12. — Congress headed into a national defense battle today as eight House military affairs committee members filed a report demanding authority for the President to send the national guard to any "danger spot" in North or South America.

A sharp warning that American troops must be used to protect small western hemisphere nations against seizure in a "lightning war" was served upon Congress by the group.

The report, which attacked action of the majority of the committee in restricting use of the national guard to the United States and possessions, broke the virtual unanimity by which Congress pushed the $5,000,000,000 defense program toward final passage.

Developments

Developments in the preparedness drive included:

1. War department weighed Edsel Ford's declaration that the huge Ford organization is ready to begin making airplane motors.

2. House prepared to act on $1,706,053,908 national defense bill, which includes funds to expand regular army to 375,000 men.

3. Senate prepared to consider proposal for voluntary elemental combat training for 300,000 CCC youths.

4. President Roosevelt made ready to sign bills authorizing an 11 per cent expansion of the navy; appropriating $1,821,853,222 for army expenses, and providing for training of 16,000 pilots, purchase of 10,000 airplanes and construction of 20 air bases.

5. Mr. Roosevelt signed the $1,400,000,000 naval appropriation bill providing for 2,900 new airplanes.

6. Senate passed legislation authorizing an army air corps of unlimited size, granting the president broad power to restrict export of war materials and to establish or lease munitions plants.

7. House passed administration tax bill, designed to raise $1,000,000,000 annually for the next five years to help pay for defense outlays.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Germans announced capture of Rouen, cutting off Paris from Le Havre, and advance of motorized units to a point only 12½ miles from Paris on the northwest. The Nazis have crossed the Seine at several points below Rouen, Berlin asserted.)

Heavy Battle At Senlis

The heaviest fighting of the war is now under way at Senlis, 33 miles from the Eiffel tower. Senlis suffered greatly in the last war and became Marshal Foch's headquarters in 1918. It was the closest point to Paris that the Germans ever attained in that conflict.

To the east of Paris, the French have now fallen back of the Marne, scene of the great battles of 1914 and 1918 when the Germans almost reached the capital.

In 1914, General Gallieni's "taxicab army" stemmed the German attack at the Marne and four years later the Allies, strengthened by fresh American troops, broke the back of the Teuton army at the same spot and began the closing phase of the war.

Fight Along Marne

Today, the French fought along the Marne, for British contingents which succeeded in reaching France after the Flanders evacuation were believed concentrated only in the far west.

From Compiegne, Noyon, Soissons and Chateau Thierry—all names of fame in the last great conflict—the French fell back, bitterly resisting every foot of the way, but falling back none the less in the knowledge that only by creating a smaller, compact front on the very fringe of the city would there rest any hope of saving the city.

North of Senlis, there was in progress what an official French military spokesman described as a "grand battle." South of the Aisne and near the Plateau of Soissons there was terrific fighting as well, with carnage spread across the wide flat area between La Ferte-Miton and Fere-En-Tardencis.

Thus the Germans mastered the Ardennes Plateau and seized Meaux, Chateau Thierry and other points where so much blood was spilled a quarter of a century ago and is being spilled again now.

The French retreat is not without its strategy. The Germans, spokesmen admit, have thrown a wheel around Paris, but the French army is the hub of that wheel, and until the hub is broken, Paris cannot fall.

It is anticipated that the French withdrawals will continue until the high command has created an impregnable block of men and steel around the capital. The hope remains that the Germans eventually will exhaust themselves in pounding against this bulwark and finally give General Maxime Weygand his long-awaited chance to attack.

Soissons to defense posts north of the Paris region and north of Chauteau Thierry on the Marne.

Today a tremendous battle is raging at Senlis.

Inferno At Rheims

Another inferno is the region of Rheims, where the Germans with four or five divisions, including two armored divisions, are trying to carry out a pincer movement east and west of the famed cathedral city.

Using smoke screens and gigantic pontoons, the Germans are trying to cross the Seine between Rouen and Vernon.

The French, who are using tanks, are launching terrific counter-attacks against the few German units which crossed the river near Vernon yesterday.

Despite mobilization preparation of 15 days and although they have 50 or 60 divisions poised on the border, the Italians have not yet taken a plunge against the French in the Alps, where crack French fortresses and mountain troops await them.

But the Germans have succeeded in crossing the Aisne in the Soissons region and in progressing to the plateau in that area. Heavy fighting is reported at La Ferte, Milon and Fere-in-Tardencis, the Greman elements penetrating to the Marne in the region of Chateau Thierry and Meaux.

Hope For Paris Surrender

"It is still hoped," this spokesman said, "that the French military will show common sense and spare Paris from the fate of Warsaw."

Today's official communique by the high command was far more explicit than those of recent days, leading to belief that Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler and his generals are now convinced they have consolidated the positions around Paris.

Expanding on the communique, general headquarters announced that an anti-tank division commanded by Major Dessloch so far had disposed of 200 French tanks, including seven yesterday. An additional four tanks were destroyed by air bombs south of Reims, it was said.

tons; the Otera, 2,900 tons; the Polleza, 4,000 tons, and the Pafano, 3,600 tons.

Announcement of the air raids on Malta followed a 45-minute air raid alarm in Rome early this morning.

While the alarm was in force all street lights were turned out as well as all house lights in the periferal section of the city.

No planes were heard, however, and the anti-aircraft batteries remained silent.

(Editor's Note: It was announced in Londor that military objectives in northern Italy were bombed during the night.)

England's big mistake was her failure to realize that airplanes can drop explosives where a fleet can't.

BRITISH REPORT AERIAL RAIDS IN NORTHERN ITALY

indicated the Allies were prepared for any attacks that might be launched there.

These reports were used by the British press as the basis of further scathing attacks upon Premier Mussolini's "foolish decision" to enter the war.

It was felt that today would provide intensification of operations in the Mediterranean and the near and middle East.

Vice Marshal Sir Archibald Longmore, commander-in-chief of the Royal Air Force in the middle East, reported that British bomber attacks on Italian bases in Libya and Italian East Africa had crippled Italy's aerial striking power in the middle East.

Bombs Are Captured

Simultaneously it was reported that the Italian steamer Umbria, carrying 5,000 tons of bombs destined for use by the Italian air force in Eritrea, had been captured in the Red Sea by the British navy

In Libya, Italian ammunition dumps, airdromes and supply bases were bombed and set on fire as a fleet of British Blenheims, it was claimed, "caught the Italians napping."

From Nairobi came word that British South African air force bombers had heavily bombed Bandahill and other military objectives in Southern Ethiopia.

Only three of the Blenheims failed to return to their bases, it was stated.

Meanwhile, the London Daily Mail reported that Italian infantry and native troops claimed to have penetrated into both British and French Somaliland, striking towards Djibouti.

old or more who are not yet engaged in military service to leave the capital. This was done in order to conserve French man-power for later use.

Ordered To Leave City

He also ordered all other ablebodied men not obliged to remain in Paris to leave the city.

With the Germans now less than 35 miles from the gates of Paris, the capital took on the aspect of a besieged city, according to advices in Tours.

It was estimated that more than 75 per cent of the population of the capital's suburbs already have left for safer refuges and the roads leading south were still crowded with evacuees.

(A Reuters dispatch from Paris said American flags were flying over the British and Belgian consulates in Paris.)

Late reports from the front said the Germans were continuing pressure on the left flank northwest of the city, but the French were reported holding firm on the right flank as far as the Argonne.

Generalissimo Maxime Weygand was quoted as saying:

"Slowly but surely the enemy is being worn down."

and they will be routed out by the American who truly loves his flag and the nation for which it stands Displaying that flag on Friday, June 14, is a privilege millions of people in the world would give their all to enjoy.

It is a privilege we should be proud to exercise. Get the flag out on Friday. On a pole, from the window, or from the porch, display it Show your neighbors and the world that the love of the flag is something that has not died.

Here in Lawrence county there will be a huge Flag Day celebration in Ellwood City sponsored by the Ellwood City Elks. All over the nation similar celebrations will be held all of them stemming out of the National Flag Day Association, organized in 1898 by William T. Kerr, a former New Castle man, now of Philadelphia. Mr. Kerr has been the president of the association since its inception. One of the vice presidents is Fred L. Rentz of New Castle.

Through Mr. Kerr's efforts and those of his organization Flag Day has come to mean something in this country. This year it takes on a deeper, more serious meaning.

SYMBOL OF LIBERTY

ON June 14, 1777, the Congress of the United States, then but a feeble little union of thirteen scattered colonies, adopted what was practically the present form of the national flag. It was a bold step, as it indicated that the colonies were firmly determined to obtain their own independence.

A few years before the adoption of that national emblem, not many people were firmly convinced that this country would or could attain independence. The patriots were in the main protesting against injustices committed by the English king and his ministers, but not many expected to set up an independent government. They merely asked for reforms and justice under the crown.

But as the years swiftly passed, as acts of tyranny and injustice followed, the idea took deep root that only by actual independence and a new form of government could the American people maintain their rights and establish justice. Their Declaration of Independence of July 4, 1776, was a daring act. It was likely, if the independence movement were put down, that many of its leaders would pay with their lives for their courage.

So when, less than a year after the Declaration of Independence, the national flag was adopted, it indicated a firm determination to stick it out and obtain freedom, or take the risk of dying in the attempt.

The stars of the flag have this deep significance: They are all alike. No star is greater or brighter than its comrades. Some states have always been big states, some small states—in population—but in the union of Old Glory they are all alike.

So should it be under the flag in American life. Some Americans are big, some are little, in their ability and their attainments. But in their rights and a fair chance to obtain what they are able to produce, and to secure the benefits of freedom, they should stand alike as do the stars in the flag.

NO GOVERNMENT JOBS FOR ALIENS

Order of a check-up on foreigners employed by the United States Government or on Government projects in the Panama Canal Zone is due to discovery that on one large and important operation several hundred foreigners are on the payroll.

The foreigners referred to in this case are not Latin-Americans but nationals of totalitarian countries. It is a commentary on world events that a matter of months ago their employment would have caused little or no disturbance. Today it constitutes a distinct danger which must be recognized.

The point is not related exclusively to the Canal Zone, important as that area is. For good and sufficient reasons the Federal Government should pursue steps already indicated to eliminate all potentially dangerous or known subversive elements from key positions in direct Government employment, or from jobs on present and prospective defense work.

ECONOMY IN DEFENSE

It is possible that America, in undertaking the gigantic task of armament, will be forced to adopt more provident ways with finished goods. This country is dotted with the "graveyards" of things that have been discarded and for which a wasteful people finds no further use. It is not so in the older countries where folks have been forced by poverty to use things over and over again. It may eventually come to be thus in the United States.

After the World War wooden ships used for transport lined the Hudson river for miles in rows of four. They could not be sold for junk. Excess materials for the army and the navy, representing hundreds of millions of dollars, were sold, if at all, at great sacrifices. That can hardly be permitted to happen again in a nation already beset with debt and forced nearer and nearer policies calculated to achieve the closest economy.

If the nation does not prepare economically, defense will fall short. There is nothing clearer in history than this: That a provident people is a strong people and a wasteful people is not.

STRENGTH OF YEARS

If Britain loses its island by invasion, Prime Minister Churchill envisages a retreat to the outpost of the empire and in "God's good time" a return in force with the aid of the New World to rescue Europe from its oppressors.

In a speech the other day the Archbishop of Canterbury put it another way. At a great gathering designed to stiffen British morale he declared: "The centuries rebuke the fears and calm the anxieties of the hour."

There is little in this troubled world that Time, the great repairer, cannot fix. Hannibal whipped the Romans again and again on their home grounds but in the course of a few years he was gone and Carthage destroyed. The fierce Asiatic conquerors scourged the earth in their times, and then they and their works were gone.

Napoleon swept over Europe and North Africa with ease. Skulls of the soldiers to whom he brought death exceeded in size all the pyramids. Yet Napoleon was, as time goes, a flash in the pan. Kaiser Wilhelm, in four short years, was diverted from conquest to wood-chopping.

Hitler says his conquest, if successful, will set up a German dynasty for a thousand years. He is tragically mistaken.

Militarism is a fearful thing and brings to the human family its greatest tortures. But it is, against the strength of the years, weak and evanescent, leaving only crumbling structures and bitter memories.

An American warship, just launched, was 15 months overdue. Couldn't the preparedness effort be streamlined?

One of the mysteries of this war is how King Carol of Rumania has changed sides so often without getting his uniform mussed up.

Germany charges Switzerland with shooting down Nazi planes off Swiss soil. And no doubt there are "persecuted German minorities" in Switzerland that need protecting, too.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

HOW TO HELP SLOW READERS

The problem of the poor reader in the first or second grade usually is very different from the problem of the poor reader of the fifth or tenth grade. As a rule, the latter can read fairly well from a primer or second grade reader; materials of his own grade are just too hard for him. In general, we help this poor reader of the upper grades by inducing him to read from materials several grades easier than the materials meant for his own grade.

But the reading laggard in the first or second grade might not have learned to read at all. He may never have been able to connect printed words, phrases and sentences with their appropriate sounds and meanings. Occasionally a very bright child will reach the second or third grade without having learned to read at all. With the aid of the pictures on the page and a good memory he may have been able to "spout off" whole pages glibly, without connecting a single utterance of his with the words, phrases or sentences on those pages.

Early Problem

The problem of teaching the beginner to read is to lead him to connect words, phrases and sentences with their names and meanings, so that, when, for example, he sees "doll" he will say and think "doll"; when he sees "on the chair" he will say and think, "on the chair"; when he sees, "the doll sits on the chair," he will think and say, "the doll sits on the chair." Though he later may learn to read for meaning only (read silently), he at first will need to be able to translate the word, phrase and sentence into oral utterances.

Here are some ways by which a parent might help the young poor reader! On a large cardboard, print in large letters the name of a common object, like chair. Fasten the placard to the chair. Do likewise for table, door, bed, etc., a few at first, more later. Call to the child's attention these names and induce him to learn them at play. Increase the number gradually.

Later, help him make a scrap book by cutting pictures from old magazines and pasting these pictures in the book. Under each picture print the name of the object pictured. It might be well to select the pictures in groups so as to emphasize initial sounds, as ball, bat, bed in one group; pig, pail, pan in another, and so on.

Be An Artist

It might also be easier for you to draw the picture for each word. In this manner you might picture verbs of action, using "stick men" to do so. Call to the child's attention the initial letter in each word. It will be well, no doubt, to encourage him to learn the alphabet, but not to have him spell out the words as he reads.

Encourage the child to read the road signs and labels in the grocery store. Then there are a few magazines which appeal to young children, motivating them to read in order to do the things pictured. Read a great deal to this child so he will grow more interested in meaning and more eager to dig out for himself the fascinating things from the printed page.

By writing me at 235 East 45th Street, New York City, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it, you may receive any of the following books from which to read to the baby or young child; graded list of books for children from six to twelve to read; a graded list of toys and playthings.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. To my three-year-old, I have read many nursery rhymes and stories but I can't get him to tell me the stories or recite the rhymes. His little cousin does it so very well.

A. Forget about the little cousin. Quit asking your child to say the rhymes and stories to you. Be happy that he likes to hear them. Go on filling him up with them. Some day he will just naturally run over and give to you of his own creations. Better for him than mere recitation of the originals.

While interviewing a prospective employer, you will double your chances of employment by using your will power to follow these simple rules:

Disregard any prejudices aroused in your mind by any sternness he may show at this particular time, as he may prove to be very amiable after you have passed his tests. Concentrate on how you can readapt yourself to fit into his scheme of things and assure him of your ability to do so. Until he says he will employ you, avoid discussions of vacations, sick leave or whole Saturdays off. Paint no black pictures of your former employer. Do not admit that you want to work in order to save enough to marry or because your father or husband has lost his job. If you want the job, your talking theme must be in effect that you know that you can help him, that you are equipped to put over the work, that your duties will interest you, that you will enjoy preparing yourself to fit them better. If you want to be turned down, harp on the reasons why you need the job to meet your personal needs.

Readers' Questions Answered

Question: When I happen by chance to meet a neighbor (man) on my way to catch the 8:15 suburban car to the city (on which we all pay as we enter) what should I do about the awkward question of paying? If the man offers, should I allow him to pay my fare, buy my newspaper, etc?—Amy.

Answer: Have your fare ready so that when the time comes for you to pay your fare, you might say: "I have it here," handing your change to the conductor. The same applies to your newspaper, magazines, etc. If you do this the first time, you will feel no embarrassment upon meeting him every morning. The custom of leaning upon men financially and otherwise is fast dying out.

A very newly married young man, on arriving home recently found a note from his wife. On reading it he dashed from the house to a cab and drove madly to the nearest hospital. Inquiring for his wife there proved fruitless, as it did at the next hospital. At the third and last, when he was told she was not there, he exclaimed in desperation, "Oh, where can she be?

The nurse noticing his despairing look, asked where he expected his wife to be. He replied that she was undergoing a serious operation and might at that moment be dying.

"What was the operation, asked the nurse. Here is the note she left for me," he said. "That is all I know about it."

The nurse read on the crumpled piece of paper: "Dear Jack: Have gone to have my kimona cut out."

Many Angles To Neutrality Question
Technicalities Are Being Raised Now
Will Act In Good Faith In Americas

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, June 12.—So many technicalities are involved in Uncle Sam's neutrality legislation that it is hard to tell what is legally neutral and what is not. Of course, virtually nobody in the United States is genuinely neutral as of the present writing. The government certainly is not. However, the law can be dodged in some respects.

For instance, it is strictly forbidden to send conscripted American forces to belligerent countries across the seas.

Nevertheless, Senator Claude Pepper of Florida maintains that we are entitled to adopt such a policy so far as our navy is concerned, for the navy is not conscripted. For that mater, neither is our army conscripted in times of peace. But the issue is not raised in connection with the army, anyway, inasmuch as the Allies are not urgently in need of land reinforcements, whereas more sea strength would be very valuable to them.

Pepper has been severely raked over the coals by real neutralists on Capitol Hill, but is entirely indifferent to their criticisms.

Preserving Neutrality

A puzzle also is embedded in the plan to send North American fighting men to Mexico and the Central, South and Insular Americas to aid them in preserving their own neutrality whatever may eventuate.

It would seem that the dispatch of Yankee troopers, marines and

NO ALTERNATIVE

When 1940's mechanized warfare unleashes its destructive fury upon lands only twenty-four hours removed by air route from North America, this nation has no choice but look toward its defenses certain for its safety.

It is not choice but necessity that has dictated the nearly $2,000,000,000 of defense appropriations voted earlier in this session of Congress, and not choice but necessity that President Roosevelt ask an emergency appropriation of one billion more for that same purpose.

The price of inadequate defense was written large in the Allies' diplomatic defeat at Munich in 1938 and in the series of defeats, military and diplomatic, which followed that soon-broken pact.

In modern warfare, victory goes not necessarily to the side with the biggest battalions, but to the side of the most thoroughly mechanized, modernized army. Supported by the air fleet, the mechanized and motorized units of the German Military Machine raced through Poland in less than four weeks time.

The world has better highways than were in existence in Napoleon's day and it is not so hard to fill the stomachs of the soldiers regularly as it was one hundred years ago. The great flexibility of the mobile units no longer pin armies to slow-moving supply line.

There is a recognition of the vital role they play in war as in peace, in the fact that a single shipment which left New York not long ago, contained fifteen hundred motor trucks bound for France. And the United States War Department recently placed a $15,000,000 order for such transport units. The day of lightning-war calls for lightning-fast armies.

Few Americans welcome the necessity which forces a nation to put millions into its Military Machine, but in a world where to go unprepared is to invite attack, there is but one alternative—to arm!

UNCHANGEABLE

These things she never expects to see:
A decent sort of a tie on me.
A high silk hat or a morning coat
Or that neat effect on which women dote.
At life's long last she has fixed her mind
On the fact that I'm the unchangeable kind.

These things she never expects to do:
Alter my masculine point of view.
Get me to hang up my coat and hat,
To wipe my feet on the front door mat.
At life's long last she has come to see
That as I have been I am bound to be.

She knows the end of her days she'll find
The trail of trouble I leave behind
That she to the end of her days will be
Following, picking up after me.
That my socks and my shirts of the day before
Will always be found on the bedroom floor.

Oh the years are many; the years are long,
But the hopes have weakened that once were strong.
She has given up and has ceased to try
For that high silk hat and that change of tie.
Now as patient and gracious as she can be
She's resigned to picking up after me.

The Great Game Of Politics

By FRANK R. KENT

by The Baltimore Sun (Copyright, 1940)

Mr. Tugwell Dissents

Washington, June 12.

IN the last two weeks the anti-third-term forces within the Democratic party have collapsed. Full utilization of the war situation by the New Deal politicians plus the weight of the Administration patronage machine and the clear connivance of the President himself have succeeded. On the surface, there remains almost nothing of the party opposition.

UNDERNEATH, of course, there is as much as ever. But politics being what it is, politicians have no taste for bucking that kind of steam roller, particularly when driven by a hand with so much to give. Opposing the Administration in the convention is as futile as trying to stop a German tank with a popgun. From the political viewpoint, there is no nourishment in the effort, and practically all the party figures who a few months ago were openly antagonistic are now either inarticulate or hypocritically acquiescent.

ON a single day last week four outstanding Democratic third-term opponents threw up their hands and leaped for the band wagon. One was Senator Pat Harrison, of Mississippi who is on record against third terms as a matter of principle. Another was Secretary of War Woodring, whose hostility has been deep and undisguised. A third was Senator Meade, of New York, close friend of Mr. Farley. The fourth was Senator Prentiss Brown, of Michigan, regarded as implacably against the third-term attempt. In brief, the anti-third-term movement in the Democratic ranks has been squelched and its leaders routed. Vice-President Garner has been rolled over and flattened out. For his own self-respect it is hoped he will not abase himself to the point of licking the boot that kicked him (as some are doing), but certainly he will make no convention fight against a conceded renomination.

IT seems that Senator Van Nuys, of Indiana, is the only one of the nine Democratic Senators whom the President tried to purge from the party in 1938 who has the political courage to refuse acquiescence. The other day he declined election as a delegate from his State if the delegation was expected to vote for a third-term nomination. Perhaps in the convention there will be others to raise a warning voice, but there are no indications of it now. In private, they talk bitterly enough, but publicly theirs is a supine position. It is a rather nauseating spectacle and it is not surprising that the inner circle politicians are contemptuous of these anti-Roosevelt Democrats whose support is as false as it is forced.

ACTUALLY, Mr. Roosevelt's renomination is so completely his to take that speculation is now concentrated largely on the Vice-Presidential selection. Everybody agrees he can have a renomination; nearly everybody assumes he will take it. Postmaster General Farley, whom the President ten months ago assured he would not run and who has been treated shabbily, is expecting soon to retire from the Cabinet. Certainly he will not conduct a third-term campaign. In the midst of all this agreement that Mr. Roosevelt wants another term, it is interesting that a strong dissenting voice should come from a former member of the Roosevelt Brain Trust and still an intimate and devouted friend — to wit, Mr. Rexford G. Hugwell.

IN the picture magazine Look last week Mr. Tugwell wrote that so far from making it more likely the President would run again, the great intensification of the war made it less likely. Expressing his conviction that a third term does not necessarily mean a dictatorship, Mr. Tugwell nevertheless asserts that Mr. Roosevelt's belief in a democratic government is so deep that he would never take a step which could be construed by the world generally as a step away from democracy and toward dictatorship—particularly at a time when the dictators of the world threaten the civilization we cherish. He makes a logical argument for Mr. Roosevelt's failure to reveal his purpose until the Democratic convention has nominated a ticket and adopted a platform to his liking. When that is assured, Mr Tugwell says, he is confident Mr. Roosevelt will act in a way to confound those who believe he aims at continued power and dismay the enemies of the democratic system.

HE simply, says Mr. Tugwell, will not permit the convention to renominate him, and those who think otherwise do not appreciate the tremendous devotion of the President to the American institutions and his own feeling about the third-term Democrats who recently have fallen in line for the third term if Mr. Tugwell should turn out to be right.

Delegations To March Friday

New Castle Organizations To Take Part In Ellwood Flag Day Event

"Sizeable delegations" of the memberships of many of New Castle's social and fraternal clubs will march in Ellwood City's huge Flag Day parade Friday evening at 7, it was announced this afternoon by leaders of the Lawrence County unit of the Pennsylvania Federation of Fraternal and Social Organizations.

The county unit, which recently was host to its state convention, called club spokesmen together in Columbus Hall in the Seventh ward and laid plans for a large representation to Ellwood.

New Castle Elks are playing a leading role in the planning work.

"This year we're all joining the Elks, though," one spokesman for the federation group declared. "In times like this we're all glad to get a chance to honor Old Glory. We'll have a large crowd in Ellwood."

Three New Castle bands — the Legion Cadet band, the Christopher Columbus society band and the Sons of Italy band—will appear in the Ellwood march. The Sharon Elks will send two bands, too.

Another pre-parade session will be held by the federation representatives in the Elks club here Thursday evening at 8. Final plans will be checked.

Presiding at last night's Columbus hall meeting was the county federation's vice president, Rudolph J. Herman.

Excessive Rain Retards Crops

Result Of Too Much Rain Expected To Cause 1940 Crops To Fall Short

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, June 12.—Pennsylvania crops have been retarded by excessive rainfall with the result that the 1940 harvest may fall below expectations, the federal-state crop reporting service announced Tuesday.

Winter wheat and rye crops continued to show improvement but indications were that the harvest will be somewhat below average, it was said. While condition of the oat crop was about average, other spring-sown crops have been held back by unfavorable weather.

Milk and egg production, however, have jumped to record levels and excellent fruit crops were in prospect.

Corn Retarded

Rain retarded the planting of corn and oats in northern counties. The rye crop soon will be ready for harvest in many southeastern localities, but barley has been disappointing to many farmers.

"Much corn acreage is still unplanted in the northwestern part of the state," the federal-state service reported. "Sowing of oats has been delayed this season. Northwest of the mountains many farmers will not plant the full acreage intended earlier because of the wet soil conditions.

"In the southeastern part of the state oats appear to be making a good stand. Both meadows and pastures have responded markedly during the month."

All early varieties of apples have a good set, it was said, and in the commercial peach-growing areas an excellent crop is in prospect.

Camping Contest Planned By Boy Scouts In County

Council Camp-O-Ree Scheduled For Camp Phillips, June 21 And 22

Annual Boy Scout Council Camp-O-Ree will be held this year on Friday and Saturday, June 21 and 22, at Camp John M. Phillips, near Rose Point.

The Camp-O-Ree is a camping contest so planned as to encourage all patrols to go camping and teach scouts how to camp and cook their own meals. The program at the camp is scheduled to get under way at noon on June 21 and will continue through 2 p. m. June 22.

According to John J. Finnessy, Lawrence County Scout Executive, all patrols in the county are urged to attend and take part in this camping expedition. "This event is to be one where fancy equipment will not be looked upon with favor, but judging will be based upon each scouts' ability to camp and make the best use of those things which are available," Mr. Finnessy stated today.

This year those patrols that do not own tents will not be barred from the Camp-O-Ree, but will be assigned the regular patrol shelters at Camp Phillips.

Executive Finnessy believes that, "This method will give every scout a chance to enjoy the Camp-O-Ree, whether or not he has equipment, a uniform, or just a desire to be a real Scout."

Old Dickson Home Now Display Place For Shenango China

OLD DICKSON HOME

One minute you're standing at the corner of Grant and Shenango streets and its 1940. A few steps into a house and you're back in 1860, and the house might well be Tara where Scarlet O'Hara was born. For at the corner of Grant and Shenango streets is the Shenango China Shop which will be opened for the inspection of the public Thursday afternoon and evening, which happens to be tomorrow.

The Shenango China Shop is an innovation of the Shenango Pottery, a place which will accommodate the constant stream of local people and tourists who want to see the West Grant Street has been restored in the tradition of the Victorian style to give the Shop an added interest to women. This outstanding old house is conveniently located near the Pottery and away from the heaviest down town traffic with ample parking facilities on three sides. One of Western Pennsylvanias finest examples of the nineteenth century style of buying at home the historic old house provides a striking setting for New Castle's noted China products.

Six massive Gilt-framed mirrors, three almost 11 feet high, have been assembled from London, Dublin, wide variety of beautiful china ware manufactured by the Shenango Pottery. Heretofore the plant has been only with wholesale display rooms at the plant. The new shop will show the product of the pottery.

A view of the interior of one of the rooms in the new Shenango China Shop, showing the Victorian era appointments.

Feature Haviland

The famous Theodore Haviland China produced for the American Market at the Shenango Pottery for several years will be especially featured with the largest number of Haviland patterns on display in any shop in the country. One purpose of the Shop will be to offer odd lots, discontinued items and slightly blemished pieces which cannot be disposed of through regular retail outlets and these, of course, at substantial reductions from regular prices. Regular China will also be shown in a wide range of patterns and can be bought here or at your favorite shop elsewhere.

The Shop will also feature exhibits of unusual patterns of special interest such as the Service prepared for the United States Government for the dinner given King George and Queen Elizabeth on the occasion of their visit to the New York World's Fair last year and the china Admiral Byrd took with him on the trip to the South Pole. Also noted Service for the Secretary of the Interior, the Venezuelan Embassy, Officers Services of famous American Corporations, Historic University Services, and those used in noted private homes.

The Shop will be open daily and will provide local people an opportunity to take their out of town visitors to one of the most interesting places in Western Pennsylvania to see New Castle products which are becoming famous throughout the entire country.

Victorian Period

The fine old Dickson House at 125 Baltimore, and New York, to feature the Victorian Decoration. Two crystal decorated Chandeliers carry out the style of the old Gas Lit Era. Curtains of the Civil War days are used with draperies in two rooms reproducing the style of those used in the movie sets of Tara, Scarlet O'Hara's Childhood home in the movie "Gone With The Wind." The wall papers are Victorian throughout and the hall is decorated in a very old Crimson Design of the type used in the Red Room of the White House in Washington, D. C. The entry is done in the now famous Williamsburg Blue.

Every item displayed is a product of the Shenango Pottery. Passes for visitors admission to the pottery will be obtainable through the shop for social groups, women's clubs, and private parties. The facilities of the shop including the lawn will be available for gatherings of womens clubs and orgainzations. Members of the Shenango staff who have come to New Castle from important China and Pottery producing centers in this country and Europe will be available for such gatherings when arrangements are made through the shop in advance. Opportunities will thus be afforded for the identification and appraisal of china heirlooms or antique items of special interest, also for any information concerning the historic and interesting china industry and its development in New Castle.

A preview of the shop is scheduled for pottery employes today and tonight. Thursday the shop is thrown open for the inspection of the general public. Thousands of pieces of china, massive old mirrors, drapes that smack of the "dear dead days beyond recall," chandeliers that might have lighted a party for Her Majesty Queen Victoria, all of them are in the china shop and all of them are worth a visit.

What's What At A Glance

bluejackets to these countries would not be in a class with the shipment of conscripts to European belligerents. In the first place, the Americas are non-belligerent and any aid we may extend to them will be intended to keep them so. There will be about it nothing of the "protective" policy which Germany endeavored to make apply to its invasions of Denmark, Norway, Holland, Belgium and Luxembourg. Whatever we do in the western hemisphere will be done in good faith and the southern republics will recognize that this is true. There have been times enough when landings of our marines on the soil of our various southern neighbors have amounted virtually to acts of war. This kind of "protection" will be the real thing and the 20 Latin Americas want it.

The National Guard

Another question arises as to whether the National Guard can be used for this American extra-territorial duty. This militia essentially is for home purposes and the legality of dispatching it into as near-by a country as Mexico is questioned by many students of our statutes. Still, it would be convenient if the guard could be so employed in an emergency.

American military authorities are considerably be-fogged by the European belligerents' failure to issue any definite casuality lists following their numerous engagements during the pending conflict.

Of course, there always has been a disposition on the part of any particular combatant to minimize his own losses and to exaggerate his enemy's.

Reasonably complete and trustworthy lists of dead and wounded on either side hitherto generally have been available.

It may be accepted as a foregone conclusion even now that the families of the war's victims are notified when one of the latter falls in action. It isn't likely that news of deaths at the front is kept hushed up so thoroughly as to leave fathers, mothers, wives and sisters in ignorance of the tragedies which may have befallen their loved ones on the battle front.

Plain Arithmetic

But in such fighting as has occurred recently along the English channel, statisticians have little to guess on except statements from the respective military intelligence offices to the effect that 100,000 men, for instance, were slain in the past 24 hours of hostilities. Names are ignored completely and where such large numbers are being dealt with it seems reasonable to surmise that important personalities must be included. The communiques, however, deal with nothing but plain arithmetic. Evidently it will not be until long after the war's end that many thrilling sidelights will be available.

In the Navy Tradition

According to tradition at the Annapolis Naval Academy, a midshipman's best girl must affix his epaulets when he graduates and is commissioned an ensign in the navy. William Morton, of Charlestown, W. Va., and Harriet Drumheller, from his home town, see to it that tradition is served. (Central Press)

Propose Addition For Church Here

Congregation Of Christian Church To Discuss Plans At Meeting Tonight

Proposal for a sizeable addition to the Madison Avenue Christian church, will be brought before the congregation tonight at a special meeting, scheduled for 8 o'clock.

If a favorable vote is taken by the congregation it is hoped that work may be started on the new portion to the church. The new addition, if constructed, will contain adequate rooms for the various Sunday school classes to meet.

There is sufficient ground surrounding the present building, that is already the church property, to construct the proposed addition.

Make Progress With Addition

Progress is reported on the new addition to the Crawford-Oakridge home, North Liberty street. Sometime ago a new brick section to the home was started to provide needed room in the building.

The new addition is being built to the rear of the building, just off the kitchen. Extensive repair work has been under way at the building for sometime, and one of the new features includes modernistic lighting on the interior of the building.

At the present time this structure is being used as a Resident Girls Center for the National Youth Administration. Here young girls are taught the rudiments of home management and housekeeping.

S. C. W. CLASS AT SCHEIDEMANTLE HOME

Mrs. C. E. Dungan, program committee chairman, was in charge of the social program. The hostesses served a delicious luncheon at the close of the meeting.

YOUNG PEOPLE HAVE PICNIC AT CASCADE

Members of the Kings Herald Band of the Mahoning Methodist church enjoyed a picnic at Cascade park Tuesday evening. The young people enjoyed an evening of songs and games and completely explored the park.

Eleanor Blasdell and Mrs. John Phillips, leaders for the group, were in charge of the picnic. While enroute home, the leaders treated the band members to refreshments.

There will be no meetings of the organization until September.

G. I. A. TO MEET

Members of the G. I. A. to B. of L. E. will meet at the American Legion Home, North Jefferson street, Thursday, at the new time, 1:30 o'clock. LIBRARY CLOSE

New summer hours are now in effect at the Mahoningtown Branch Library. The new hours call for the library to close one hour early during June, July and August. Patrons will do well to remember that they will be unable to get in the library after 8 o'clock on Monday and Thursday evenings.

ON VACATION

NEWS BRIEFS IN WARD DISTRICT

New tenants at the old car works property have already moved in. Workmen are busy daily getting the property in first class condition, and installing new equipment in the buildings.

Another attractive garden, and one worth mention, is found to the rear of the Ralph Scowden residence on East Clayton street. Mrs. Scowden is an active member of the Mahoningtown Garden club.

A picture of the capitol building for the State of Nebraska was seen centering the license plates on an automobile, from that state, parked on North Cedar street, Tuesday.

Many residents of the district take pride in making their porches as attractive as possible. Numerous porches look quite cool and inviting, not to mention their comfortable appearance.

FATHERS' DAY

Fathers' Day is this week, and I think this is an appropriate time for me to say something about them. I write a good deal about Mothers, but it's very seldom I have anything to say about fathers, and this is hardly fair or wise.

A father shouldn't just be the man who brings home the potatoes and meat in a family. But a great many fathers don't seem to achieve the place in the home that is rightfully theirs, either, because they don't know how to take the place they should, or because the mother thoughtlessly overshadows him in the home with her more spectacular role. Fathers seem to get but little credit in this world for their share in bringing up the family. I compare the father to a linesman on a football team on which the mother is the star quarterback. She carried the ball, and makes all the spectacular plays. He just works away there in the line, giving the mother protection so she can care for the children.

Even at the birth of a baby, the father's traditional place in the opinion of others is anything but impressive. Cartoonists and jokesters love to depict him pacing up and down the corridors outside the maternity ward and the whole idea seems to be that he is a wholly unnecessary by stander in the birth process. Here in this part of the country, my experience with fathers at the birth of a child is entirely different. In this sparsely settled country maternal help is scarce, if the father does not actually attend the confinement, he at least has the other children to look after while the new baby is being born. Often he is given the new baby to care for too, almost as soon as it is born. More than once, when no nurse or assisting woman was available, I have had to call on the father to assist me. Some proved to be splendid assistants too.

Not always, however. I remember one father who fainted on my hands just when I needed him. On the other hand, I recall that I was called out to attend a birth in a distant section of the country. It was spring and the roads were very bad. So I was a long time getting to the home. When I did, I was met at the door by a very pale husband, with a baby in his arms. He had delivered his wife of the child, and he had done a very good job of it too. He hadn't had much idea of what to do, but faced with an emergency, he had done it anyway. He hadn't lost his head, he had used it. It is my experience that fathers are usually like that. They do quite as much, and sometimes more, for the family as mothers. But, being gallant, they allow mothers to have most of the credit.

Super-Highway May Not Be Done On Scheduled Time

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, June 12.—Indications today were that the formal dedication of the $70,000,000 Pennsylvania turnpike on July 4 at which President Roosevelt was scheduled to officiate may be postponed due to the inability of the turnpike commission to complete the road on time.

There was nothing to indicate that President Roosevelt had definitely agred to dedicate the new Harrisburg to Pittsburgh superhighway on Independence Day. Commission officials could not be reached when attempts were made to question them.

Considerable paving on the 160-mile express highway remains yet to be done. In addition, the highway has not yet been fenced in.

Present indications now are that the "dream highway" will open some time this fall, perhaps in time to handle the Labor Day traffic. The Federal Government is expected to grant the turnpike commission an extension of time beyond the June 29 deadline set for completion of the "road of tomorrow."

UNCONTROLLED DOGS

HARRISBURG. — The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture today said dog owners will save themselves trouble and inconvenience if they obey the law by having their dogs licensed and wearing a tag at all times, keeping them under control and by making the dog an asset and not a liability. Dog owners as well as the public, should call local police or constables and report dogs running at large which are a menace to public health and property.

DAILY DOZEN

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

The gangster's "Tommy gun" might be called "tummy gun".

Shooting in the abdomen is a most effective mode of killing.

The smaller the calibre of the gun, the lower the death rate.

Shotgun wounds in the abdomen are especially dangerous.

Large holes are made which are almost impossible to repair.

The proportion of deaths increases with age for two reasons.

Youths usually use .22 rifles, and their stamina is better.

The earlier the operation, the better chance for recovery.

Hemorrhage is the chief cause of death after shooting.

Transfusion is of value when there is heavy hemorrhage.

Perforation of the large intestine causes a high death rate.

Abdominal gun shot wounds are always dangerous, usually fatal.

News And Views From Pennsylvania Capital

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, June 12—Formation of a Wendell Wilkie-for-President Club in Pennsylvania reflects the increased interest in the Keystone State of the G. O. P. presidential candidacy of the president of the Commonwealth and Southern Corporation . . . The Wilkie Club was formed by Benjamin C. Jones, of Altoona, a Pinchot man who ran for secreary of internal affairs in 1938 . . . Jones is publisher of the Tyrone Herald and an officer in the National Guard.

Formation of a Wilkie-for-President club by so prominent a Pinchot leader indicates a split in the old Pinchot state organization . . . It had been expected that most of the Pinchot support would be thrown to District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey of New York . . . Now, apparently, it is to be divided between Dewey and Wilkie . . . Supporters of the utility leader say the small number of write-in votes he received in the Pennsylvania Republican primary is no indication of his strength, because he was not a serious contender then.

Dewey supporters contend the large plurality Dewey received in write-in votes at the primary indicates public support in Pennsylvania is behind him. . . . The Republican write-in voters gave Dewey the most votes, with President Roosevelt second and Governor James third.

Governor James' radio speech on June 5 was considered in state Republican circles to have been his bid for the presidency . . . Literature setting forth his qualifications has been sent out by the Republican State Committee to all of the 1,000 delegates to the national convention . . . In state Republican circles it is said that Governor James would not accept second place on the Republican ticket.

When Governor James appointed former Deputy Attorney General William S. Rial of Greensburg, a member of the Liquor Control Board he said he "hoped" Rial would be chosen as chairman by the board to succeed Dean W. H. Hitchler of Dickinson Law School who resigned . . . . Under the law the board must itself elect its chairman . . . So upon Rial's appointment the board assembled and voted unanimously to name Rial chairman . . . The vote was two for Rial and none against, for the only members of the board now are Rial and W. Worrell Wagner, a Pinchot appointee . . . The office of the third member of the board has been vacant for some time.

Much favorable comment is being aroused in non-partisan circles by the governor's appointment of B. Frank Morgal of Harrisburg, as a member of the Public Utility Commission. . . . Morgal started with the commission 25 years ago as a stenographer. . . . To take Morgal's $7,000 a year position as director of the commission's bureau of accounts the commission appointed David Dunlap. Morgal's executive assistant. Like Morgal, Dunlap started with the commission at the bottom—as a messenger.

Cubs Beaten By Paul Dean 3 To 1

Brother Of Famous 'Dizzy' Dean In Comeback Role, Allows But Four Hits

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, June 12.—This still young baseball season already has supplied many a surprise but none more pleasingly stunning than the one furnished yesterday by Paul Dean, the younger and less talkative of the famous pitching brothers.

When Dizzy Dean recently was shunted back to the minors it was generally believed that brother Paul soon would follow him into obscurity. Both reputedly had dead arms and because Paul's had been dead longer than Dizzy's it was felt he had less chance to stage a comeback.

Dean Tames Cubs

Yet, today we find Paul the proud possessor of a four-hit 3-1 victory over the Cubs. Paul probably never will regain his once blazing fast ball but he must have been fast enough for the Cubs who, until yesterday, had won seven in a row.

Previously, they had ran up against Bill Lohrman of the Giants in the first game and were shut out, 4 to 0, on five hits. The Giants have developed a penchant for winning doubleheaders and if Paul Dean's comeback is not a flash in the pan they must be considered seriously as pennant contenders.

The double victory brought the Giants closer to the Reds who dropped one to the Phillies, 4-1, when Walter Beck outpitched Bucky Walters.

This was quite a shock to the Reds but not more so than little Tommy Bridges was to the Yanks. Tommy gave his slugging opponents only five hits and but for an error by the elephantine York would have had a shut-out. As it was, with Bartell, Gehringer and Campbell tapping Atley Donald for homers, the Detroit veteran had no trouble winning, 6-1.

Feller Chased

The Indians also were painfully surprised when Wilson held them to seven hits and Bob Feller failed to go the route, the Red Sox winning, 9 to 2. The defeat dropped the Indians into third place behind the rampaging Tigers.

And the surprising Browns hung up their fifth straight victory when Kennedy outpitched Leonard for a 5-2 decision.

The Chicago White Sox won a night game from the Philadelphia Athletics, 5 to 4, on a home run by Julius Solters, pinch hitter, in the ninth.

In the National league, the Brooklyn at Pittsburgh night game was postponed because of wet grounds and the Boston at St. Louis nighter was rained out.

NEW YORK, June 12.—Completion of arrangements for a late summer meeting of Billy Conn, light-heavyweight champion, and Heavyweight Contender Bob Pastor, was announced today by Mike Jacobs.

The New York promoter said the match would be a 15-round affair and would be held at the Polo grounds in New York on Tuesday, August 13.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Derby's Lighthouse II has been installed as favorite in the Derby at Newmarket, England, today. . . . Jack Dempsey will spar a few rounds and give advice to Arturo Godoy as how to fight Joe Louis when they meet today at Carmel, N. Y., the Chilean's trainin camp.

Flood-like rain in Millvale caused a putting back until Thursday night of the Tony Cisco-Lloyd Marshall, 10-round fight. . . . Dick Cassiano, former Pitt grid star, who has been in a Pittburgh hospital for a knee injury, has been discharged from the institution.

Helen Jacobs polished off Janet Middleton, Norristown, in straight love sets to advance to the third round of the Pennsylvania and Eastern States net championship at Chicago. . . . Jack Dempsey To Box Again

Will Spar With Arturo Godoy For One Round, Will Meet Wrestler On July 1

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, June 12.—Thick around the middle, a little heavy of jowl and to all outward appearances nothing more nor less than the successful business man he has been for nigh onto a decade, Jack Dempsey today is going to defy imminence of his 45th birthday and long disuse of the muscles that made him the original killer-diller. Before one of the biggest gatherings of sports experts to be lured to a fight training camp in many semesters, the erstwhile manassa mauler is slated to put on the gloves for one round up at Carmel, N. Y. with Arturo Godoy, who is training for his return match with champion Joe Louis on June 20.

May Be Knockout

Dempsey's appearance in the ring will serve the dual purpose of giving some publicity to the Louis-Godoy show and to Dempsey's own return to the ring on July 1, when he will appear against one cowboy Luttrell, a wrestler from Texas, in a six-rounder at Atlanta. The wrestler will box, not wrestle, and the bout will be waged with six ounce gloves to a decision (?) or to a knockout (?).

The question marks are my own subtle way of hinting that (1) Dempsey couldn't go six rounds with a singer midget, and (2) does anybody actually think that there won't be a knockout in Atlanta?

By way of filling you in on the Atlanta extravanganza, which is expected to attract some 35,000 spectators into the ball park, this is a rematch of a brawl between Dempsey and Luttrell several weeks ago, when Dempsey refereed one of the Texan's grunt and growl contests. During the course of the evening's festivities, Luttrell swung at Dempsey and was slugged with a counter left hook, in keeping with the script.

Sports World Ramblings

Local sports briefs—Ellwood City's latest pugilistic venture sizzled, so far as action and thrills were concerned. The gallant amateur leather pushers dug deep in their "sock" repositories. Consequently, the gallery witnessed a show that was so hot it made them forget about the humidity in the air. . . .

For sheer nerve, stringy Nick Ritorto cops the brass ring. Nominating himself for the task of taking on "Smokey" Robinson when a Youngstowner turned down the post, Nick took everything the A. A. U. champ had and smiled all the way. Incidentally, Robinson says he will turn pro in the fall. . . . Frankie Moran's kayo was a big upset. Arrangements are being made to pair Frank and Grover Carter for a bout here. . . .

Paul McCullough can still come up with a gem now and then. Hurling against an Ohio nine, a few days back, McCullough turned in a three hitter. To make the case more binding, Mac won his own game, driving in two runs in the seventh. One of the Marshall boys from Hillsville was stationed in left field. He helped McCullough's cause by whacking a pair of hits. . . .

Diamond jottings — "Diz" Dean can't even fool the bush leaguers. While he won his debut number with Tulsa, he yielded a pair of homers. . . . What happened to the Red Sox? The Bostonians crumbled like a cracker in the past week. Part of the blame is being placed on the shoulders of Ted Williams. Some of those stories may be true, after all. Yarns pouring out of the Bean town credit Williams with being a lone eagle, a non team man.

When the Dodgers get licked, they really get licked. Not so long ago, the Cards dumped the Daffs 18-2. Cincy defeated Brooklyn ignominiously, 23-2, a couple days back. These figures represent the highest scores of the season. . . . Many local fans plan going to Butler, Thursday afternoon, to witness the New York Yankees-Butler Yankees exhibition game. The tilt starts at 2:30 o'clock (E. S. T.) . . .

Dots and dashes—Lawson Little is a prince on and off the links. After winning the National Open, he peeled off two crispy $100 notes and gave them to his caddie, Henry Eckoff, an 18-year-old lad. The bag carrier will use the cash to enter college. . . . Jack Dempsey, who reportedly will don the gauntlets again July 1 to settle a dispute with a wrestler, will be 45 years old on Monday, June 24. . . .

Whereas, the 14th day of June has been declared as National Flag Day, and

Whereas, Ellwood City will join with the nation in honoring its National Flag on that day, and

Whereas, the flag of our country symbolizes the ideals and principles upon which this great nation was founded and for which the citizens of the United States have so often fought:

I, therefore, as burgess of Ellwood City call upon the people of this city to display the national colors between sunrise and sunset on Flag Day at their homes and places of business, and I further urge them to participate, wherever possible, in any exercises which have been arranged to commemorate the national emblem which we all hold so dear.

Dated this 11th day of June, A. D. 1940.

WILLIAM McGLINCY, Burgess.

Lutheran Society To Mark Anniversary

ELLWOOD CITY, June 12.—Extentive plans for the celebration of the silver anniversary of the Women's Missionary society of the Trinity Lutheran church to be held on Thursday evening have been completed.

Rev. Ludwig Beisecker, pastor of the local St. Peter's church, organized the society when he was the Trinity pastor. All former members, many residing throughout the nation, have been invited and a fine response has been made.

The affair will begin with a tureen dinner at 6 o'clock in the social rooms of the church with the anniversary address to be given by Rev. Beisecker. The first business session will be re-enacted with Mrs. P. W. Blocher, president, and Mrs. Mae Eiselmen White, secretary, and a historical skit will be given by the charter members, of which there were 14, only three of which are deceased. Many surprise features have been planned.

Arrangements are in charge of Mrs. H. F. Fleischer and Mrs. S. C. Mullin.

Mrs. Homer Pickel Has Reading Circle

ELLWOOD CITY, June 12.—Mrs. G. M. Van Tine of Mercer was a special guest of the Reading Circle on Tuesday when the members were hospitably entertained by Mrs. Homer Pickel of Franklin avenue for the June meeting.

ELLWOOD CITY, June 12.—Mr. and Mrs. William E. Hall of Park avenue, who were quietly celebrating their 55th wedding anniversary last evening at their home, were delightfully surprised when a group of relativse assembled, "surprise fashion", for an informal evening.

Bingo occupied the hours in a pleasant manner, with the top honor going to Ralph Cross. At an appropriate hour a tempting lunch was served by Mrs. Chester Hall and Mrs. Reed Hall.

The honor guests were presented with a number of lovely gifts.

MRS. JOHN MILES MISSION HOSTESS

ELLWOOD CITY, June 12—Members of the Women's Missionary society of the First Christian church were entertained last evening at the home of Mrs. John Miles, of Fourth street, with a good attendance of members.

Council Entertained At Girl Scout Camp

Diversified Program Provides Happy Days For Girls Of Community

ELLWOOD CITY, June 12.—Formation of lasting friendships, educational activities, cultivation of physical well being, excellent food, and an over abundance of fun are among a few of the fine privileges being afforded 125 local girl scouts at Camp Kon-O-Kwee, Pittsburgh Y. M. C. A. camp, near Fombell.

All these opportunities were impressively demonstrated to members of the Ellwood Girl Scout Council troop leaders and Mrs. J. A. Evans, Miss Gloria Andrus and Mrs. Fay Cowan, who were entertained last evening at dinner at the camp.

Girls ranging from Brownies, prescout age to senior scouts 14 to 17, are located in five units about the camp, according to age groups. With leaders and helpers, the total amount in camp is about 175. Mrs. Edward Reilley and Mrs. Lloyd Hamill are the cooks and they have done an excellent job in preparing delicious meals. Last night's dinner required 50 pounds of steak and a bushel and one-half of potatoes, not to mention the salad and sidedish. Cakes and pies for dessert have been generously provided by mothers and friends of the campers. Each camper must take her turn in being hostess at a table and helping with the dishes.

Throughout the day, the girls have six classes, nature, handicraft, dramatics, singing, swimming and camp craft. Swimming has been the most popular with the hot weather making the choice self-explanatory. One of the most interesting is the nature study with many exhibits having been found in the wooded section in which the camp is located. The pet of the entire camp is a mother o'possum and her newly acquired family. Mrs. Walter Gamble directs this class and she is patiently waiting for a clear day and night for a bird hike and a star trail.

Fun and fellowship mark each night's camp fire, which on account of the damp weather has been held in the mess hall. Last evening with Patty Painter as mistress of ceremonies, the girls presented an impromptu program of pantomime, readings, dancings and stunts that displayed a great deal of cleverness and originality.

This morning a camp picture was taken and tonight being the final night of camp, an especially fine Indian ceremony has been arranged for the camp fire hour.

Mrs. Rebecca Zeigler is camp director and a great deal of credit for the smooth functioning daily activities is due her and the large staff of competent workers.

Rev. Howard Loch Is Kiwanis Speaker

All-Kiwanis Day To Be Observed Next Thursday At Country Club

ELLWOOD CITY, June 12.—The "luke-warmness" Americans display toward the sacrifice in war, lives and money as signified by the American flag was deplored by Rev. Howard F. Loch, guest speaker at the weekly dinner meeting of the Kiwanis club last night in the Trinity Lutheran church.

"Our American Flag" was the theme and speaker said that loyalty would be encouraged by the national week observance. The speaker was a past Kiwanian of the Pitcairn unit and was presented by Rev. F. H. Daubenspeck. Patriotic singing was enjoyed before the program.

Members are out strong today at the Country Club golf course to meet the Rotarians in the first match of the summer long contest.

Collins Boyce was welcomed back to the meetings.

Next Thursday, Kiwanis clubs of this district will hold an all-Kiwanis Day at the local Country Club. The affair will begin in the afternoon with golf matches and will be followed with a banquet and dancing with ladies to join the group at the dinner hour. Bob Thompson is in charge of local arrangements.

Manos Nine Takes Second Victory

ELLWOOD CITY, June 12.—In a game cut short by darkness, the Manos won their second American Legion Junior League victory in three starts last night by turning back the Ellport Red Sox, 4 to 2.

The game was a scoreless pitcher's duel between McCready of the Manos and Gregg of the Red Sox until the 15th inning when both teams counted their markers. Each hurler limited the opposition to three singles. McCready yielded only one base on balls and fanned 14 while the Manos were given eight free tickers by the two Ellport tossers.

Score by innings:

		R.	H.	E.
Manos	000 040—4	3	3
Ellport	000 020—2	3	1

Batteries: Manos—McCready, p., and Julula, c; Red Sox—Pflugh, p., Gregg, p., and Pavic, c.

Court Of Honor Date Is Changed

Prize To Be Given To Troop With Highest Percentage Of Parents Present

ELLWOOD CITY, June 12—Change of date for Ellwood City District Court of Honor is necessary according to the Chairman, Rev. Arthur M. Stevenson. The previously announced date conflicts with the county-wide Camp-O-Ree which will be held Friday and Saturday, June 21 and 22.

Many troops obtained the standard patrol rating at a district Camp-O-Ree last Saturday and it is believed and desired that most of those patrols will find it possible to attend the Lawrence County Council Camp-O-Ree at Camp Phillips during the dates mentioned above.

The court of honor has changed the date to June 20.

Court will be called to order at 7:30 p. m. which is a little later than usual. A special prize is being offered by the advancement committee to the boy scout troop having the highest percentage of parents present.

As previously announced, troop No. 7 sponsored by the Shelby Social club will have the oath and laws candle service. The honor of advancing the colors and leading the oath of allegiance will go to troop No. 6, sponsored by the Lutheran Brotherhood class, J. Donald Howells, scoutmaster. Troop No. 6 will also receive the advancement trophy to hold for one month by virtue of having the greatest number of awards for the May court of honor.

The board of review for Ellwood City district will meet at the city building Monday evening June 17th at 7 p. m. as previously announced.

CHEST DIRECTORS TOLD WORK DONE BY CITY MISSION

Reflecting the type of men whom the City Rescue Mission is befriending as transients each night, the report of Superintendent Archie W. Gibson of the mission before the Community Chest board of directors last night proved most enlightening.

In May, Gibson told the board at the Pennsylvania Power Co. building, the mission handled a load double that of the May of a year ago.

He said that on a single night unemployed men accepting shelter at the Mission included a lawyer, architect, accountant and a salesman who had spent 20 years in a large metropolitan department store. "None," said Mr. Gibson, "is denied shelter and a meal at the mission, and the citizens of New Castle are urged to send men who request food at their doors to the mission."

A report was also given by Captain Carl Andreason of the local Salvation Army unit of the relief work done here during the first six months of the year.

Jumps From Bridge To Save Youngster

Lad Rescued From Drowning In Swollen Neshannock Creek

A 22-year-old youth who underwent an appendicitis operation but six months ago leaped over the East Washington street bridge railing Tuesday afternoon and swam to the rescue of a struggling boy who was being swept downstream by the swift current.

Hero of the lightning-like action was Walter Blews, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Blews, 239 West Moody avenue.

Blews works at The New Castle store and happened to be out on his lunch hour. He was standing on the bridge with friends when he sensed a slight stomach pain—and instinctively lowered his eyes in time to see two boys struggling in the swollen Neshannock current.

One of the lads was under water, with his arms waving overhead. The other, an older boy, was making a valiant effort to reach him. He shouted to the bridge crowd: "He's drowning!"

Before anyone realized it, Blews, clothes and all, had hurdled the railing and jumped into the muddy water below.

He made straight for the youngest boy and, after a splashing scramble, reached him. The oldest was working himself to the side of the creek and soon was safely on shore.

Blews gave the youngest—a lad of nine—needed attention and later helped them up to Water street and sent both home. Their names were not learned.

Walking back to the store in his soaked clothing, Blews got the warm congratulations of spectators who had seen what he did. His employers sent him home to rest all afternoon.

"Is this going in print?" Blews asked a newsman this morning after the reporter, unknown to the young hero, finished a conversation.

"Ah, that's not news," he said. "Who told you about it?"

The spectators called it real news.

Two Verdicts Are Returned

Just before the noon recess today, the Lawrence county jury hearing the cases against Peter Askounes and Stanley Myers Miron, for the sale of liquor to minors and permitting sales to be made, returned a verdict of guilty in court room number one.

The cases were brought by the Pennsylvania Liquor Control board, it being charged that in the cafe operated by Mr. Askounes, known as Candyland, liquor had been served to minors. Supporting this contention the commonwealth produced four minors who testified to having been served.

The Liquor Control board held a hearing in the case some weeks ago, but to date no decision has been handed down. It is likely that an appeal for a new trial will be filed by the defendants in the Lawrence County courts.

The cases against Frank Largo and Thomas Conti charged with pandering were still with the jury at noon.

In court room number one the case against Sue Monico, charged with keeping a house of prostitution was called before noon. In court room number two the case against Ralph Largo, charged with interfering with a witness was started.

USE A WANT AD

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEEALL

Now that warm weather is here to stay . . . almost every housewife has the front porch or maybe a back porch fixed up so that when the family comes home in the evening they can all sit around in comfort and talk about the topics important to them. Also when daughter has a date with the favorite b. f. it's a good place for him to wait and talk to the family while she dresses. Most girls it seems, (according to a report we receive from the boys) wait until they see their date turning to the front door before they start to dress . . . why, no one can tell. You know it's very bad taste to be late for anything anymore . . . once it was stylish but those days are gone (we hope). So if you want to be popular, no matter who you are, be on time.

For some time past we have been giving you leads as to where you might obtain a dog if you were so in the mood. Today we have another dog in addition we have three little kittens (who lost their mittens and can't tell where to find them) to give away . . . the dog and kittens may be seen at the following homes:

Arthur Sampson, 512 Wildwood Ave. Phone 2478-M . . . A small dog, about two months old. Male, white with brown spots, make fine pet for children.

Mrs. H. F. Rowland, 809 E. Main St. . . . Three little kittens . . . two male, one female. If you like kittens, they are just right. See them and love 'em.

Today the pool at Cascade Park is open for all those who enjoy this great sport . . . Superintendent Coulthard has been working with his men almost night and day and the repairs are now finished enough that the pool is in operation. When it's hot in town take a dip in the cool waters of your pool. We might also say . . . next Monday is the first Children's Day . . . every Monday thereafter during the summer season will also be Children's Day . . . special rates on all rides and the swimming pool.

We live in a grand country . . . where things are like we like them. Give Tuberculin Tests To Group At Aiken School

County Tuberculosis Society Continues Local Drive Against Disease

Continuing its fight gainst tuberculosis, the Lawrence County Tuberculosis Society gave the tuberculin test to 31 persons at the Aiken school building, Tuesday. Those tested were in the pre-school and mothers groups at the school.

Dr. David Perry gave the tests, assisted by the state nurses and Miss Della A. Glenn, secretary of the tuberculosis society. Co-operation of the teachers of the classes enabled the society to do a fine job. Mrs. Agnes B. Howley aided with arrangements for the tests.

The tuberculin test is the first line defense of the tuberculosis society in finding early cases of the dreaded disease. The Tuberculosis society officers handled the educational work in conection with the examinations Tuesday.

Plans are being made to have other groups receive the test, and any group interested in carrying through such a program should contact Miss Glenn.

Seavy Photographer Here Half Century

Prominent Civic Leader, He Hesitates To Tell Photography's Future

E. E. Seavy this week is celebrating the 50th anniversary of the founding of his first photography shop in New Castle.

It was June 10, 1890—50 years ago last Monday—when the Seavy & Fowler (A. R. Fowler) shop opened at 12 North Mercer street, where the Union Trust bank now stands. Since then much has happened to photography, improvements have come fast.

A reporter asked Seavy to look into the next 50 and to predict, if he dared, what other forward steps might come. "No, I couldn't possibly foresee what might lie ahead," he replied. "That's asking too much".

Seavy got his first photography experience in Meadville when he was just 20. Then he went to Sharon and with Fowler opened a shop. It was in 1890 the New Castle shop was opened. Seavy acquired Fowler's interests soon after.

Seavy has always drawn to him the best and most experienced photographers, and today Glen C. Carpenter is his partner.

Twice Seavy, one of the founders and a past president of the New Castle Rotary club, has been president of the Pennsylvania Photographers' association, and for years he has been active in the Photographers' Association of America. He resides on Highland avenue.

Y. W. C. A. Notes

ITALIAN MOTHERS CLUB

Members of the Italian Mothers club will have a picnic at Cascade park Thursday evening, with Mrs. Carmela Mash and Mrs. Antoinetta Cascavella as hostesses.

HOUSE COMMITTEE MEETS

Gifts from Y. W. C. A. clubs as well as the receipts from the house committee benefit bridge, made it possible for the committee, of which Mrs. C. R. Balph is chairman, Mrs. George Long, Mrs. W. E. Ferver, Mrs. Paul Butz, Mrs. C. H. Young and Mrs. C. W. Balentine, members, to meet Tuesday morning and decide upon painting the Girl Reserves office from the Girl Reserves clubs gifts, to paint the International Institute parlor thru the gift of Italian Business Girls club, and to purchase a rug for the same room through the gift of the Italian Mothers club and the bridge party.

A gift from the Junior Business Girls club will be used for the newly painted parlor.

The Y. W. C. A. building, the gift of Ira D. Sankey to the Y. M. C. A., was used from 1888 to 1910 by the Y. M. C. A. and purchased by the Y. W. in 1910. It has stood up remarkably well through the 52 years but many of its rooms need painted. The auditorium, especially, needs painted and reconditioned so that it may be used as a recreation room for the many clubs of the Y. W. C. A. and also by the many groups which make the Y. W. C. A. their headquarters.

Mrs. Balph asked the Y. W. C. A. membership at the annual meeting to work together toward raising the money to fix the auditorium into a usable recreation room next year.

Canker Worm And Blossom Blight Affect Orchards

Orchardists Of County Have Numerous Pests To Contend With This Year

Canker worm and blossom blight are giving Lawrence County orchardists an unusual amount of trouble this spring, and fruit growers are having to keep up almost a continuous round of spraying to curb the pests afflicting the trees.

Blossom blight, according to one orchardist, is an infection carried by the bees at blossom time, which causes the leaves to die.

The canker worms, on the other hand denude the trees of foliage. Spraying with preparations recommended by Department of Agricultural experts is being done, but because of the extreme wet weather, much of the effect has been lost, orchardists have found.

Jersey Breeders From Three Counties Take Part In Exhibition At Fair Grounds

SHOW FEATURES GOOD PRODUCERS

Many cattle fanciers were present at the Jersey Parish Show staged at New Castle fair ground Tuesday under the auspices of the Northwestern Pennsylvania Jersey Breeders Improvement association, which proved an outstanding event. Membership in the association comes from Lawrence, Butler and Mercer counties. R. N. Moose of Wilmington township is the president.

The judges for the show were John Thompson, field agent of the Jersey Cattle club of the New England states, and H. E. Dennison, field agent of the Jersey Cattle club of the middle Atlantic states. Other notables present were Samuel Sherman, representative of the Jersey Cream Line Sales of New York City, and E. S. Bayard, editor of the Pennsylvania Farmer, of Pittsburgh.

Entries were divided into two classes, silver and gold star. In the silver star, three-year-olds, they must have produced 400 pounds of butterfat in a year to be eligible, and those entered in the gold star for three-year-olds must have had a production record of 500 pounds or more. Similarly in the four-year-old classes, the qualifications were 450 and 500 pounds respectively; five-year-old class, 500 and 562½ pounds respectively.

It was the first show of its kind held in the district.

Alumni Reunion Friday, June 21

Large Attendance At Reunion Of High School Graduates Is Indicated

While there is no accurate check yet upon the number of people who will attend the reunion of the New Castle high school Friday night, June 21, in the Cathedral, the indications are that the crowd this year will be the largest in many years.

Chairmen of the various classes have reported increased interest in the reunion this year. A few classes have no chairman and as a result, the students of that particular year have not been given personal invitations.

In this respect President Mrs. Leslie Brindle said today, "the reunion is for everybody who ever attended New Castle high school. If any person has been missed in the personal invitations, it is because of one of two things, either there is no chairman for that year or the person has no telephone. We want everybody present and I hope all of the alumni understand this is a general invitation to them to attend."

Representing the Committee of the Unemployed, Mrs. Lizzie Richardson, Charles Fullwood and Phillip Russ appeared before the county commissioners on Tuesday morning to protest against the indiscriminate layoffs in the sewing project. One entire shift, about 150 women were laid off, they charged without regard to their economic need.

"We also have protested the layoff, said Commissioner George H. Bolinger. "John Ely of the W. P. A. came into this office and said the afternoon shift was laid off. We asked that the women be graded according to need but Mr. Ely told us the shift was off. We felt then and we feel now that this was an unfair way of doing it."

Commissioner J. F. Travers said that he felt it was the wrong way to make reductions but that the commissioners were helpless in the matter.

"There are old women who were laid off," declared Mrs. Richardson, "who are in need and yet younger women were left on. Some of the women have means of support outside the W. P. A. and yet they are still on. It is a shame and we believe the commissioners should make further protests.

A handsome maple desk made its appearance in the office of the county treasurer on Tuesday, the gift of the court house employes to Don Neal, deputy county treasurer, who was married recently.
